ASB Nominating Assembly Today

Election time is almost here!

A nominating assembly today gives CBC students a chance to become acquainted with those fellow students who have declared themselves candidates in the coming primary election.

In order to qualify as a candidate, a student must be registered for at least 12 hours and have at least a 2.00 GPA. If you meet these requirements, and have a petition form with the signatures of 20 full-time students turned in to student body Vice President Judy Sailer, you are in the running for one of the positions to be contested in the primary election.

Faculty Series Begins Monday

A series of student-faculty forums, dealing with various areas of study, was begun on Monday evening with a discussion of the contributions of psychology in many areas of living.

Participating in the first panel were Mrs. Bonnie Harder, Miss Elsa Nordin, and Mr. George Haas, all instructors of psychology.

The series is sponsored by the CBC chapter of the American Association of University Professors.

Primaries Set For April 14

CBC students will vote Friday, April 14, in the primary election for candidates to fill six top student body offices.

Offices which are to be filled are student body president, vice president, secretary, and three representatives-at-large who will represent next year's Sophomore class on the Student Council. The top two candidates for each office will be determined by the number of votes each receives in the primary election. Because of the importance of the primary election, Judy Sailer urges all full-time students to vote, and vote intelligently, April 14.

"All candidates should have their campaign signs up by Monday, April 10, for best results," said Judy. She emphasized that all campaign signs MUST be okayed by Mrs. Stappler.

Any students interested in observing the election from the inside are asked to volunteer their services to help run the voting machines during both the primary and final elections. Volunteers should contact Judy Sailer.

Bookstore to Commence Sale Of Candy, Cigarettes Soon

The bookstore will begin selling candy and cigarettes next week.

With enrollment increasing, the store has found it necessary to order larger quantities and more merchandise. Since it is a student service, it endeavors to carry what student customers request, and the candy and cigarettes are the result of request.

Student Council has voted that the book store is free to sell this merchandise even though it will be at a lower cost than that charged through present vending machines and even though this will create competition for the Associated Student operated vending machines.

A number of new articles have been added to the store during the year for the convenience of students.

Net Prospects Look For Tennis Coach

A number of men students at Columbia Basin College are hoping that somewhere in the halls or tennis courts of the Tri-Cities there can be found a coach for a varsity tennis team.

Last year's tennis coach, Vernon Ball, is an instructor at a Pasco junior high school, and his duties there do not allow him time to participate in athletics at CBC.

Several players had hoped to participate in an effort to lead CBC to another tennis trophy. Among those who would turn out if there were a coach are Chuck Nelson, Ron Neuman, Pat McBee, Don Eisenbarth, and Larry Taylor. Nelson played first singles for Centralia last year and has played on the circuit for several years. Neuman is a top doubles player and was second in the Yakima District. He played in a state meet last year.

McBee played singles for CBC last year and is a top rated player. Eisenbarth also played singles for CBC last year. Taylor played first singles for the Kennewick high school last year and was the top rated player in the Southern Yakima Valley.

Hawks Take JC Openers

The Columbia Basin Hawks opened their Junior College schedule on a successful note Saturday defeating the Cardinals from Mount Vernon 12 to 0 and 24 to 1.

The second game was called at the end of five because of the ten run rule.

The Hawks jumped off to an eight run lead after one, that rose to 12-1 after three. Then the Hawks exploded for 13 runs in the bottom of the fourth.

Big sticks for the Hawks were: Suter, four for five; Votendahl, three hits, and Kring, two doubles.

Winning pitcher was Bob Stephens, freshman from Roosevelt of Seattle.

Lucretia! . .

Dear Lucretia:

Now that spring is here, I find myself madly in love with a member of the opposite sex. The problem is she won't go out with me on short notice (one day due to my job). How do I get a date and a chance to score if she won't go out with me? Send Help.

—SHORT NOTICE

Dear Short: If she wants more time, ask her far in advance for the date and try to get off work. If it is impossible for you to get off work for the date, take her to work with you. You will probably score, but I don't guarantee in what.

Dear Lucretia:

I am a very shy person. On my job, I don't say much to people, I just stare at them and go about my business. How can I learn to say "hello" to people? — SHY.

Dear Shy: Just gather all your courage, stand up straight, smile, and say "Hello." They won't hurt you.

Dear Lucretia:

Maybe you can do something about my problem. Actually it's not only my problem, but everyone else's who drives a car to CBC. What I am referring to is the condition of our dirt parking lots. There are chuck-holes that would do credit to an obstacle course for tanks. In the two quarters that I have attended CBC I have lost: one oil pan, and two mufflers on these notorious ruts; and my passion pink paint job has literally been sandblasted by flying gravel and dust. It really is a shame that a modern college like CBC is cursed with such outrageous parking lots. If the school board's budget won't permit paving the parking lots, I'm sure that the students of CBC would donate the necessary funds.

—CAR CONNOISSEUR

Dear Car: What are you, some kind of nut? I agree with you about the condition of the parking lots, but not about the students donating their own funds for the lots. Students want paved lots, all right, but not that badly.

Hawks, WSU Twin-Bill Set For Sander's Field

Coach Len Pyne's CBC Hawks will face a stubborn Washington State University nine at Sander's Field tomorrow at 1:30, on the heels of their twin-bill with Yakima, Tuesday.

In last Saturday's clash, the masterful twirling of Johnnie Rea, Bob Stephens, and Don Lash, staunchly supported by a 35 run scoring spree, paced the Hawks to their third consecutive twin-bill sweep at Sanders Field, 11-0 and 24-1 over the Skagit Valley Cardinals.

Rea worked the entire first game, allowing only one hit and fanning nine for the shut out. It was the first complete game of the season for a Hawk hurler.

A tight 2-0 game was broken up in the sixth when the home club erupted for nine runs. Two-run singles by Rea and Joe Suter plus a key ple by Jim O'Connell lighted the outburst.

In the nightcap, shorted to 4½ innings because of 10-run rule, Stephens blanked the Cardinals over the first three frames on one hit gain credit for the win.

A 13-run fourth, sparked Bill Kring's two doubles, mented the win.

Jerry Votendahl clubbed three hits, while short Suter had four.

Rehearsals for the forthcoming Drama Club production of "Look Back for Anger" are now being scheduled, with the selection of sophomore Dennis McGraw in a leading role.

Progress had been halted temporarily when the part of "Jim" (now played by McGraw) was without an actor. It had been scheduled for April 3-4 and has been rescheduled for May 5-6.

President of the club is Jim Thorpe, who is also student director of the play.

Sponsors are Joe Taylor and David Smith. Also in the play are Carole Jaeger, Marsha Holman, and John Canady.

Officials Chat With Grads

Members of the faculty administration are in Spokane after talking in former CBC student who are now attending in the Spokane area.

The purpose of the talks is to discover problems encountered by transfer students, a view to determining CBC can do to help overcome problems.

Similar interviews with University of Washington transfer students earlier in the year indicated that the grades of CBC students hold up favorably at and further grade comparisons will not be made in current series of talks.

Talks were held with CBC students at Cheney last night, at Washington State will be interviewed next today.

Talks take place at evening coffee hours.

Schools Ask Tax Support

(ACP) — Letters to legislators urging their interest in tax-supported colleges are going out from some schools.

University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee Post reported that the student government there sent letters to all students' parents and to legislators asking them to be sure elected representatives vote in favor of the University's 1961-63 budget.

One reader questioned the wisdom of this expense, thinking that "most of them will be glanced at and discarded."

The Post editorialized, however, that student government should be praised for their action. It was true, the editors said, that many would give the letters only a glance, but "it is reasonable to suppose that enough will read and think about it to make the expenditure ($400) worthwhile," commenting "it would be difficult to deny that the passage of the budget as it stands is of the utmost importance to the academic and physical growth of the University."

At University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, the Daily reported joint efforts by chairmen of University Republican Club and Young Democratic Farmer-Labor Club to have students "write your representative" to support the University's budget and urge no tuition increases when the state legislature convenes next month.

The student government there announced plans for a "person - to - person" campaign during vacations. Students were asked to talk with local newspaper editors and representatives when in their hometowns for the holidays.

At University of Wichita, Kansas, students and politicians were talking about that school, now city-supported, getting state aids. The Sunflower, looking at the high enrollment, and high fees, agrees with many that "it is high time a workable plan of state assistance is drafted," but "that primarily local control should be maintained."

Scholarships Still Open

Applications are still being accepted for scholarships for currently enrolled CBC students who expect to be here next fall and for graduates transferring to other colleges.

Available for CBC sophomores are the Pasco Kiwanis, Delta Kappa Gamma, Pasco P.T.A., and Pasco Lady Lions awards, all for $135.

For graduates transferring elsewhere, the Richland Junior Women's Club scholarship of $100, the University of Washington scholarship, and two WSU room waiver awards are available.

Applications should be sent in to Mrs. Stanman of the scholarship committee, by next week.
